From Our Post Commander

There are really three types of people in this world, those who get things done, those who watch others get things done, and those that wonder what just happened. Where do you fall on this list? Getting things done does not always mean you have to get your hands dirty with the actual work. You could help in the planning, the marketing, or the strategy. But, sad to say, most people fall in one, or both, of the last two categories. You know who I'm talking about. You hear them after something is done, "I thought about that", or, "I knew that was a good idea." But they never once moved forward with that idea until someone else did it and then they want to take half the credit.

Then you have the last group. You will hear them say something like, "Well,, who said you could do that?" , or, "When did we vote on that ?" They always have a gripe about what was done or HOW it was done.

We are set up so that every member has a say about how things are done, BUT, you must attend the meetings to have that say. One member; One vote. Thing are starting to happen down at the post, and I really need your help in the planning, the implementing and the finishing of every part of it. Your help is very important in many ways. As for me,, it always feels so good to be able to step back and say, " SEE WHAT WE DONE'. It is time for you to step up and get some skin in the game.

See you at the Post.

David Fenn

Historian and Hubmaster notes

Our Historians can be key players in recruiting and improving participation.

Each of our organizations has a Historian position and since we are all family, we can all work together. Two heads are better than one; three can be great and four, fantastic. Anyone and everyone can be part of the team so lets put the "s" in Historian.
